Let's Start!

Yoga class? Art class? What classes do John and Sally take?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about free-time activities or personal likes/dislikes in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you take any classes? What?
- How often do you go?

Can Do Statements

- I can express how far or how near objects are using that, those.
- I can talk about activities that I do every day.
- I can make suggestions.

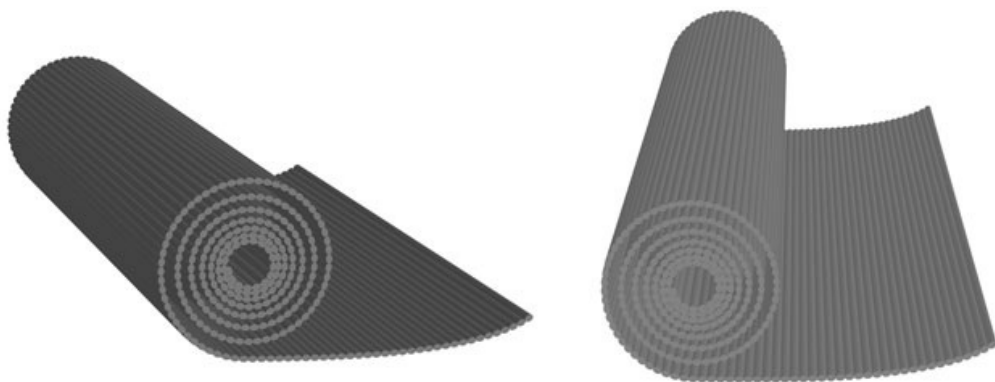

Let's Explore!

What does Sally need to take with her to yoga class?

* Sally needs her "yoga" mat. In a store, she asks: do you have yoga mats?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

John: What is that?
Sally: This is my new yoga mat. I use it every day.
John: Are those yoga mats too?
Sally: Yes, they are.
John: How often do you go?
Sally: I go twice a week.
John: Really? I want to try yoga.
Sally: You should come with me.
John: I don't have a mat. Can I borrow one?
Sally: Sure. These mats are extras. Do you want to come tonight?
John: I can't. I have my art class tonight.
Sally: Do you paint?
John: From time to time, about once a month. You should join my art class!
Sally: No thanks, I'm not artistic. I prefer yoga.

Learning Points

Demonstrative Adjectives

The demonstrative adjectives are this, that, these, and those. You use them to point out specific people or things.

	Singular	Plural	Examples
Near	this	these	Is this mat yours? These mats are extra.
Far	that	those	That mat is new. Are those yoga mats, too?

Expressions of Frequency

You use expressions of frequency to say how often you do something.

You can use a number. If the number is one, use once instead. If the number is two, use twice instead of 'two times'.

Then, add 'a' and a period of time:

once + a + month

You can also use every + a period of time:

every + day

Examples:

- I use my yoga mat every day.
- I go to yoga class twice a week.
