Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Peter and Vanessa like to exercise. Let's see what they find in the sports store.

Learning Outcome

Accurately exchange information about buying things in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like sports? Why or why not?
- What is your favorite sport?
- What sport do you not like?

Can Do Statements

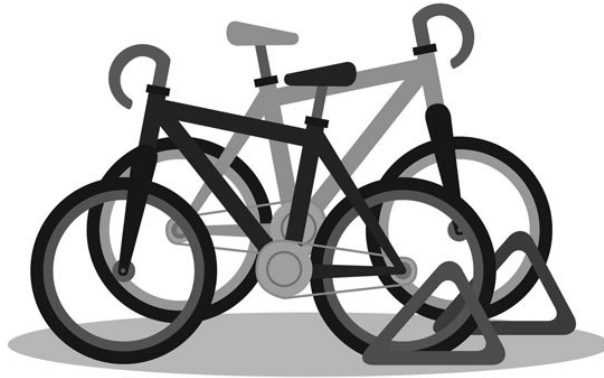

- I can say and use words with the short o sound.
- I can express how far or how near objects are using this, these.
- I can talk about sports and exercise.

Let's Explore!

Peter and Vanessa are looking for bikes. What else do they see in the store?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Clerk: Can I help you?

Vanessa: Yes, we are looking for bikes.

Clerk: Great, we have a wide range of bikes, helmets and accessories.

Peter: This sports store has more than bicycles. Wow! Look at these shoes and clothes!

Vanessa: Great for hiking, jogging or walking. I love to jog in the forest and be in nature.

Peter: Me, too! This weekend I am hiking to the top of the mountain behind my house.

Vanessa: This bike is my favorite. Hold on ... what time is it?

Peter: 6 o'clock. Why?

Vanessa: We are meeting Sally and Natalie for dinner at 7:00.

Peter: Don't worry. We are not late. I want to see the rest of the shop.

Vanessa: Alright then, I'll race you to the back of the store!

Learning Points

The Short O Sound

The vowels in our alphabet are A, E, I, O, and U. The other letters are called consonants. The vowels can be a short sound such as log, or a long vowel sound such as lone.

When you say the o sound, your mouth must be open.

Your lips should NOT be rounded with the tongue low and relaxed.

Most of the time, the short O sound comes in the middle of a word like pot and fog.

Examples:

- dog, log, socks, off, on, and top

Demonstrative Adjectives

Some demonstrative adjectives are this and these. You use them to point out specific people or things.

This is used to point out something close by.

These is used to point out things close by.

Examples:

- This bike is red.
- Look at these shoes and clothes.
